

Yves Bouchard had a career in the federal administration, particularly with Human Resources Development Canada and Elections Canada.

His areas of expertise included operational management and human resources.

He also dedicated himself to his community, sitting on various boards of directors related to healthcare and social services.

A FADOQ administrator for the Mauricie Region since 2012, he was elected president of his region in 2019.

He has also been a member of FADOQ's provincial board since that same year and has held the positions of second vice-president and secretary.

Mr. Bouchard is focused on leveraging his skills to benefit the members of the organization.
